

Videotape Testimony in DC Murder Case

By DUANE SANDUL

The testimony of a Daly City woman who was beaten and whose baby was killed has been videotaped for possible use in an upcoming trial, it was revealed Friday.

Court convened at Mary's Help Hospital last Dec. 30 to tape the testimony of Alma Elaine Ayala, 19, who was severely beaten Nov. 28 at her Daly City apartment. Her eight-month old baby boy was killed.

Court officials said that the videotaping was the first ever allowed by a judge in San Mateo County.

The district attorney's office is accusing Miss Ayala's boyfriend, Charles G. Lawrence, with murder and assault with a deadly weapon.

His attorney, Thomas F. Nolan of Menlo Park, who unsuccessfully attempted to block the videotaping of Miss Ayala's testimony, said Friday "This is a classic Sam Shepherd-type case. He didn't kill the baby and he didn't strike her."

Prosecutor John P. Oakes revealed that his office sought the recording "because she received a very serious head injury, and at first she was not expected to live. A portion of her skull is missing, and we want to preserve her testimony in the event of her later inability to testify."

The preliminary hearing last Dec. 29 and Dec. 30 before visiting Municipal Court Judge Wayne Wylie was closed to the public on the motion of Nolan. The transcript was revealed Friday.

Judge Wylie said at the preliminary hearing that the question of whether the tapes will be allowed at a public trial is still open.

The tapes were taken despite Nolan's vehement objections. He contended that their showing would tend to incite and prejudice a jury.

Without elaborating, Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo said Friday that the tapes could be admissible at a trial pursuant to new laws.

In her testimony, Miss Ayala recounted that Lawrence struck her during the height of an argument with a gun, but from that point, her memory was fuzzy.

At another point in her testimony, she said that Lawrence told her to bolt the door when he left for work as a security guard. The bolt was later broken.

Nolan contends that Lawrence was at work, and found the baby dead and Miss Ayala injured when he returned. That's the story he gave police before his arrest.

The young woman told Oakes that the argument ensued because of her jealousy over Lawrence's purported flirting with a bank teller.

"The argument lasted practically all night... he hit me in the head with the gun," Miss Ayala told Oakes.

"Do you recall him hitting the baby?" Oakes asked.

"No," Miss Ayala answered.

Under delicate cross-examination by Nolan, Miss

Ayala said on three occasions that her only knowledge that Lawrence alleged killed the baby came from Daly City Police Detective Dennis Prator.

She recalled a struggle involving the baby, but in response to a question of whether she recalled what happened to the baby, Miss Ayala responded no. The baby was found dead under a pile of clothing, fatally beaten.

After allegedly struck with a gun, the next thing Miss Ayala said she remembered was waking the next morning to find Lawrence standing over her.

"He said something about some guy named Frank Jones," she testified, adding she next remembered waking up in the hospital.

Lawrence and Miss Ayala met several weeks before the incident at City College of San Francisco, where both were enrolled.

During the preliminary, Nolan asked the judge not to hold Lawrence to answer because of Miss Ayala's purported "contradictory" statements.

But the judge ruled that there was sufficient evidence to force a trial.

Judge Piombo has under submission a defense motion seeking appointment of an investigator to be paid by the taxpayers. Other pretrial motions are scheduled Feb. 4.

Cross-Country Walk to Fight Defense Funding Passes Here

The Continental Walk for Disarmament and Social Justice will pass through the Bay Area this weekend and a contingent of county residents will be among the participants.

The local walkers will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday at Union Square in San Francisco.

The first leg of the Bay Area journey will end at about 7 p.m. at the Daly City BART station.

Participants will spend Saturday night at St. Paul's Methodist Church in South San Francisco, where they will be served dinner and Sunday breakfast.

After an ecumenical service, the walkers will be transported back to the BART station and will begin another leg of the procession to San Mateo, stopping at Golden Gate National Cemetery for a "moment of silence" sometime Sunday morning.

Hal Gregory of San Bruno, a local organizer, said he expects at least 200 local residents to participate. Many are from an organization called People Acting Together (PAT). "The whole purpose is to bring attention to people across the country that most of their tax dollars, or a good part of their tax dollars, are going toward machines of death, war machines," Gregory said.

The walk will cross through 13 states on its path to Washington, D.C., and assistance from feeder groups across the country will bring the total number of states involved to 32.

"It's not just disarmament we are concerned about, but we want that money to be put to use for programs for the people," Gregory said.

"Life-giving projects" instead of war materials should be the focus of the federal budget, PAT leaders say.

Dr. Leo Sack, a South San Franciscan and PAT chairman, said his organization is comprised of South San Francisco, Daly City and San Bruno residents.

At first, it was an anti-

PLANNING SESSION

Details of the Walk for Disarmament and Social Justice were outlined at the home of South San Franciscan Dr. Leo Sack (right) Monday. With him are Hal Gregory and Pat Maffei.

Vietnam war group which originated in 1966.

Sack said the membership worked consistently against the war until the war's conclusion and remained together after the American troops were sent home.

"It is our feeling that the war ended, but the expenditure continued," Sack said.

The walk, he said, is an attempt to alert communities on a person-to-person basis of the "enormous expenditure going toward defense."

In fact, one focus of their walk will be to publicize the defense expenditures proposed by President Ford's 1976-77 budget, unveiled just last week.

Sack said PAT and similar groups throughout the country have felt a need to publicize their concern that a tremendous amount of money is spent on defense purposes.

Publicity will continue, Sack said, until there is a reversal of expenditure.

The organizing groups are calling the cross-country trek a "walk" rather than a march because of the more informal approach to this event, Sack said.

"A march is something more formal," Sack said. The connotation is of a well disciplined, well organized, military structure in the term march.

Gregory said the walkers are stressing the need to transfer defense expenditures to "life-giving projects," such as pre-school programs for children of working parents, free health programs for the needy and hot meals for elderly citizens.

Daniel Ellsberg, co-defendant in the Pentagon Papers suit and an active opponent of the Vietnam War, is to speak at a candlelight service at St. Paul's Saturday evening.

An ecumenical service will be held at 7:30 a.m. Sunday at the church, led by Fr. Lawrence Purcell, Catholic community priest; Dr. Abraham Feinberg, rabbi emeritus of Holy Blossom Temple in Toronto and rabbi in residence of Glend Memorial Church in San Francisco; and the Rev. Jackie Meadows of St. Paul's.

The walkers will proceed to San Mateo, where a stop is planned at the Internal Revenue Service office on Monday.

They will proceed down the El Camino to Los Angeles and will take a southern route to Washington, D.C.

Commutor Tax Proposal Hit

By FRANK LAPIERRE

The overwhelming consensus of persons who troop aboard San Francisco bound BART trains every morning in Daly City and return home every night, regarding a proposed commuter tax, was summed up by one such rider last week.

"I think it's crud," Debra Durant, a San Francisco model who resides in Daly City, said prior to boarding a San Francisco bound train Wednesday.

Like others, Ms. Durant is more than slightly outraged over newly-elected mayor George Moscone's suggestion that the city impose a sort of "commute tax" on persons working in San Francisco and living elsewhere.

Actually, the tax would be placed on non-residents' wages and would not affect residents.

Moscone, like his predecessor, Joseph Alioto, feels commuters are not doing their share in supporting city services.

These non-residents come into the city, use the public services, take their money and return home to spend it, Moscone has charged.

Not so, many argue.

An anonymous Pacifica

secretary, noting "I don't think too much of the tax," said she lunches in San Francisco daily and often eats dinner there after work.

"I also do considerable shopping in downtown San Francisco shops, which I certainly wouldn't do if they deduct another tax from my paycheck," she said.

San Francisco companies already are paying a "payroll tax" in the form of a gross receipts tax, according to Ray Beach, an employee of a wholesale lumber company.

An employer pays whichever is the greater — on gross receipts or payroll, Beach said.

"This was put into effect two or three years ago," he said. "Just last year (the city) increased this payroll tax."

Beach also eats and shops in San Francisco.

Would imposition of the tax persuade him to boycott San Francisco outlets?

"No, I don't think so," Beach said.

Some years ago, when Alioto proposed a similar revenue producer, commuters brown bagged it for a couple of weeks and boycotted downtown shops. Merchants voiced displeasure with Alioto's move and the tax proposal was thrown out.

It was deemed to be unconstitutional and a discriminatory tax.

Linda Konig, a shipping company comp operator and statistical analyst, of Daly City, said she already pays $2 to get to work on BART and spends money downtown shopping.

If the tax is imposed, she will not only take her own lunch and shop elsewhere, but she would drive her own car to work — also boycotting BART.

Mountain Bill Stand Detailed

Papan Describes His Priorities

Assemblyman Louis Papan of San Mateo County explained to the mayors of San Mateo County that he supported a bill to permit housing construction in 400 acres of San Bruno Mountain to save not only the rest of the mountain as open space — but to insure $4 million for park development and get 50 acres in the developed saddle area for a park.

Papan, who came to San Mateo to speak to the monthly meeting of the San Mateo County Council of Mayors, said it was "a matter of priorities" when he made his decision last August as speaker pro tem of the State House.

He said he allowed a bill to pass at that time "to wait and see what supervisors would do." The bill would exclude 400-acre saddle area from open space to permit residential development. It would insure $4 million in state funds would come to San Mateo County, he said.

Papan noted that Assemblyman Willie Brown of San Francisco had introduced a bill allocating $10 million for Candlestick Park, and suggested that if the 400-acre saddle area was not excluded, the San Bruno Mountain bill would not have passed.

As speaker pro tem, Papan said he wanted to wait and see what the bill would do for the county.

Papan promised the mayors he will try to reconcile the almost impossible problems of the lack of jobs and the needs of conservation. He said he was concerned about the building construction trades in the county and said that while 4,000 additional housing units are needed this year, only 1,800 are being built.

The San Bruno Mountain project would at least partially fulfill some of these needs, he maintained.

Papan said priorities must be considered, and that while there are 3,300 acres on San Bruno Mountain, "all we are talking about is about 400 acres being developed."

Papan emphatically scotched rumors that he might

Fraud Activity Leads State

San Mateo County continued to lead counties of comparable size throughout the state in welfare fraud prosecutions and convictions during 1975, District Atty. Keith C. Sorenson reported today.

Sorenson said that a total of 249 complaints were filed during the year and that convictions were secured in 232 of the cases, an increase of 22 over 1974. The courts ordered a total of $359,424 in restitution and levied a total of $7,365 in fines.

Sorenson reported that nearly $2 million in child support payments were received by the Department of Health and Welfare accounting division through the combined efforts of the district attorney, the Adult Probation Office and the Welfare Department.

The figure, he said, does not include direct payments by the absent parent to the recipient. Nor does it include non-welfare support payments of $32,474 received by the district attorney and forwarded to complaining parties.

Noting that his department is adding two new family support investigators this week (for a total of 10), Sorenson reported that the total caseload of Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) had increased from 4,848 as of Jan. 1, 1975, to 6,693 by the end of the year.

His department closed a total of 2,085 cases during the year, but there were 3,220 new cases referred and 710 cases reopened, the district attorney said.

In all, the total caseload including frauds, outside aid investigations, AFDC and non-welfare non-support, increased from 5,779 at the start of the year to 7,671 as of Dec. 31.

Sorenson said that not only does San Mateo County lead in prosecution and conviction of welfare fraud in its class, but it leads most other counties in a higher classification.

He noted that in September, 1975, the latest month for which statewide figures are available, San Mateo County, with 6,856 welfare recipients, had nine convictions, while Los Angeles County, with 187,081 recipients had only eight convictions.

Problems Flow in Anti-Vapor Nozzle Test Run

By JANET PARKER

Perry Roque of Pacifica knows what can happen when an excessive amount of gasoline vapors are inhaled.

He spent 23 days in the hospital during the infamous California gas crisis of early 1974 when he was employed as a service station attendant in San Francisco.

The vapors emitted while long lines of cars idled their engines at the station waiting for gas and the gasoline spillage resulting from rapid fill-ups led to a kind of pneumonia, and Roque's hospitalization.

The service station paid his hospital bills, but the hazardous and ecologically destructive vapors have become a grave concern in recent years.

So the federal government last year approved a new nozzle and hose, designed to capture 90 per cent of the fumes usually lost to the atmosphere in vehicle fillups.

The Bay Area Air Pollution Control District adopted that regulation and required all gas-stations under its jurisdiction to have the new devices by Jan. 1.

Since then, many Bay Area dealers have been outraged.

They say the new device is more trouble than it's worth and not much safer than the old nozzle and hose.

The new system includes two hoses, one for filling the car's gas tank and another for pulling the vapor back into the station's gas tank.

Richard Hacker, BAAPCD information officer, said the Bay Area and San Diego are the only districts in the nation to date to adopt the federal regulation.

San Diego implemented its program in July and since then has been tied up in litigation with major oil companies.

As a result, the Bay Area is the sole district in the nation using the new nozzles.

"The control of gas vapors is particularly important in California where vapors are one of the prime ingredients of smog," Hacker said.

Roque has invented a device to prevent the two cumbersome hoses from snarling and wrapping around each other.

"I saw that there had to be an easier way to dispense gas with the new hoses," Roque said.

He's obtained a patent for the device and it is being tested at some Standard Oil stations.

He says it will save time for the attendant pumping the gas, minimize twisting and kinking of the hoses, minimize pressure on the nozzle caused by twisted hoses, keep the nozzle from falling from the gas pump

SOURCE OF PROBLEM
New hose should seal tightly and gas tank filler, and minimize premature breakage of the nozzle.

"Many customers have said they have waited too long to be served, or they will just drive off," Roque said of the new hoses.

It has taken him one year to perfect the device and now he's waiting for interested oil companies and dealers to try it out.

Dealers say, however, that Roque's invention will solve only part of the problem.

Service stations workers complain that the nozzle doesn't fit adequately in some newer model cars, and that, in some cases, the attendant must hold the nozzle to the car's tank the entire time the car is being filled. Others say the device is just plain cumbersome.

Glenn Clifton, owner of the Crestmoor Shell Service in San Bruno, said the new federally-required hose is "worthless."

His station installed the device three weeks ago on the majority of pumps and he's found that it won't fit many of the 1975 and 1976 model cars.

His self-service island presently has the old hoses but he anticipates all sorts of problems when he eventually installs the new ones on those pumps.

"It takes a master to handle them," Clifton said. He said it costs each dealer about $150 for each new hose and nozzle.

And many dealers say the new hose doesn't appear to be any safer than the old models.

Larry Hess, manager of the 76 Station at El Camino Real and Westborough in South San Francisco, said that in many cases the attendant must stand with the hose as he fills the car in order to prevent any vapors from escaping.

"The time we must spend with each customer is a little longer," Hess said.

In many cases, he said, the attendant ends up with gas spilled on the ground despite his efforts.

Roque's invention would alleviate the tangled hose problem, but dealers agreed that's the least of their worries.

"They really should have investigated this more thoroughly from the standpoint of how applicable the hose is," Hess said.

The BAAPCD Board of Directors has heard more than just a few complaints about the new system.

A hearing held this week to obtain public sentiment on the new devices was continued to Feb. 4.

The California Service Station Association, however, has filed a request for a variance on behalf of its 325 member dealers.

A variance would allow stations to be exempt from the regulations until certain improvements are made.

"Most stations in the Bay Area are in compliance or are awaiting further shipments of the hoses," Hacker said.

Some oil companies, Hacker said, have obtained variances for extended periods, primarily because there's only one distributor in the area approved by Underwriters Laboratory to supply the hoses.

That company, he said, has been swamped with orders.

An additional complaint of the dealers is that they may be subject to consumer fraud charges because of the new nozzle.

They say some of the gas which the customer pays for may be returning to the pump through the vapor recovery hose.

The board has adopted one amendment to its regulation to aid the dealers. Dealers may retain one unleaded gas pump using the old nozzle and hose at each station.

The pollution control district does have inspectors touring the Bay Area to assure that dealers are in compliance and to check the amount of vapors being released despite the new hoses.

The BAAPCD board does, however, have the power to take any action revising, amending or rescinding the new regulation.

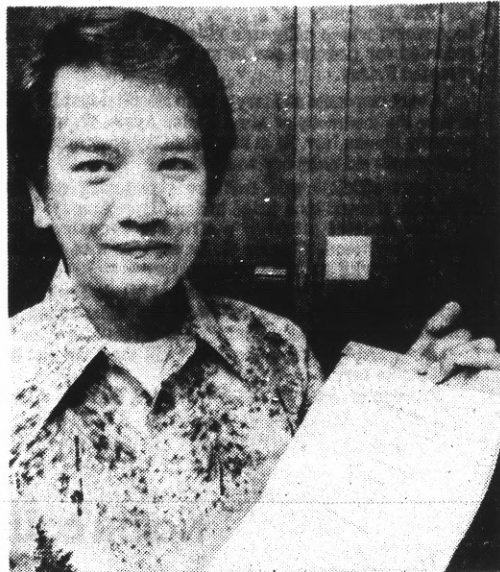

California Service Station Association leaders have indicated they will file for an injunction Feb. 6 or 7 if the BAAPCD doesn't take action to relieve the turmoil before then, according to Jim Campbell, executive director.

The association will plead for the board's cooperation at the Feb. 4 hearing.

"They are putting us in a position where we have no alternative but to go to court and seek relief," Campbell said.

The majority of the board, he said, now realized that they made a mistake in adopting the new nozzle without knowing the consequences.

"For the price we pay, it's ridiculous," said Clay Troxley of Tanforan Shell in San Bruno.

run for the state Senate seat vacated by recently elected Mayor Moscone of San Francisco, telling the mayors, "I've always concerned myself with problems of Northern San Mateo County."

He cited the "difficulty of spreading" himself between San Francisco and San Mateo County.

Papan praised Gov. Brown for "learning the economic realities faster than any other politician in the United States. It is clear government cannot do all it has been expected to do."

Papan expressed hope that property owners will be given economic relief during the coming year. He predicted that any bill which would give public employees the right of collective bargaining would fail this year "because of what happened with San Francisco police."

Papan also expressed the opinion that plans are too far along to halt replacement of the Dumbarton Bridge.

He reported he will introduce legislation today to create a state trail along the bay front from Candlestick Park to Redwood City.

Tax

reaction to the proposed tax.

She has bought all her cars — five of them over the years — in San Francisco and feels she, and hundreds of other San Mateans, have helped the city financially.

Mrs. Hernandez said she was unsympathetic to those persons who merely "go in there and rape the city and take its money."

From this standpoint, she could agree with Moscone's suggestion.

Some San Franciscans feel they already are suffering from double taxation because of the extra money paid to ride BART from Daly City to downtown San Francisco.

Although many BART riders live within the so-called Lake Merced-Olympic Club area (within San Francisco) they are transported by private buses to Daly City BART station and board the train there.

Like San Mateo riders they have to cough up an extra 15 cents for the ride across the county line.

San Franciscans, in one way or another, are footing the bill for the BART system.

Property tax rates have the surtax tacked on, and this tax is passed on to renters.

And while many commuters, who Moscone alleges are taking the money out of San Francisco and taxing public services there, will likely not change their eating or shopping habits, they already are emitting loud groans of dissatisfaction.

Marina

include a fuel dock, launch ramp and dry storage area, all operated by the Parks and Recreation Department.

The planned marina expansion will focus upon the area directly east of the existing marina into the Bay and will provide about 320 additional berths.

The city owns the property where the expansion will occur.

Milkovich said the city must obtain permits from several agencies including the State Lands Commission, Army Corps of Engineers, Regional Water Quality Control Board, Bay Conservation and Development Commission and the state Fish and Game Department.

He said the agencies already have seen the feasibility study and environmental impact reports.

The City Council has approved staff negotiations with Daniel, Mann, Johnson and Mendenhall, engineering consultants of Redwood City.

Milkovich said the City Council may approve hiring the Redwood City Consultants to begin the study at their Feb. 4 meeting.

It is possible that some construction could begin this year, Milkovich said, providing state agencies approve the marina project in time.

The city is expecting to receive contracts for $2 million and $2.8 million over the next two years in order to complete the marina project.

Phase I calls for the dredging of the existing and proposed marina area, replacement of the existing breakwater and installation of a new breakwater facility, providing new roads and parking areas, installing utilities, creating access to piers and berths and construction of the fishing pier.

Police Fight Crowd

It took nine regular and three reserve police officers to quell a minor riot in San Bruno shortly after midnight Sunday.

Three police officers were hurt while scuffling with several of the more than 60 persons involved in the melee outside an apartment house at 233 San Benito Ave.

None of the officers was "substantially hurt," a police department spokesman said.

Sgt. Tom Manning and officers Tom Daniels and Robert McNichol arrived at the apartment building shortly after midnight on a complaint that a large group of people was milling about the area.

The crowd allegedly refused to disperse on orders of police and became "extremely hostile toward police," according to reports of the incident.

Four persons were arrested and charged with assault on a police officer.

They were identified as Michael S. Reimers, 23, 82 Linden Ave.; Edward B. Mott, 19, and Richard G. Mott, 22, both of 156 Santa Lucia Ave.; and David A. Hosino, 24, 565 Third Ave., all in San Bruno.

Walk for Meals Set

The Peninsula will be the site Feb. 28 of one of four walks being undertaken in the Bay Area in the second annual "Miles for Meals" walk-a-thon.

Funds raised by the walk are channeled through CARE, the international relief and development agency, CROP, the community hunger appeal of the World Church Service, and NCEC — the northern California Ecumenical Council food network.

Volunteers, walkers and sponsors of walkers may contact the Miles for Meals office, 944 Market St., 4th Floor, San Francisco.

County Aides Picket Over Wage Offer

Chanting "you got yours, how about ours," nearly 300 San Mateo County employees paraded at the County Government Center Thursday to protest the discrepancy between the 16.43 per cent salary hikes received by members of the Board of Supervisors and the 4 per cent package offered employees.

The county and the unions representing 3,000 of the county's 4,100 employees are engaged in negotiations for 1976 salary and benefit contract.

Members of Local 829 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) and of Local 715 of the Service Employees International Union (SEIU) are to vote Jan. 29 whether to go on strike beginning Feb. 2 at 8 a.m. The strike sanction was granted earlier this month by the San Mateo County Central Labor Council.

Many of the parading employees in the first such "informational" picketing in the history of the county carried signs pointing out that the Board of Supervisors received a 16.43 per cent salary increase this year (to $25,367), while the county is offering employees a 4 per cent package.

The annual salary of board members is fixed at a scaled percentage of the annual salary of Superior Court judges, the scale this year is 56 per cent. It will increase to 58 per cent next year and to 60 per cent in 1978 and subsequent years under provisions of an ordinance adopted by the board in January, 1973.

At a rally climaxing the noon parade, Wanda Adams, a member of the unions' coalition negotiating team, stated, "We do the work, we pay the taxes, we have the families to support, we need to survive."

Cheers greeted her statement that if a satisfactory agreement isn't negotiated "on Feb. 2 we'll walk out together."

Bob Muscat, chief negotiator for the unions, said in a press release that support for a strike has increased dramatically in recent days as information surfaced regarding the wage increase "granted to the Board of Supervisors."

Shortly after the board members' salaries increased, the board upped the package offer to employees from 3 per cent to 4 per cent, he reported.

"Such a discrepancy between the insulting offer they have made to us and the theft they have participated in for and by themselves has shattered their self-proclaimed record as concerned and responsible public officials," Muscat said.

The supervisors, in contrast, have tied their salaries to the salaries of judges, and by such action guarantee themselves the annual cost of living increase, plus 2 per cent of the judges' salaries and other benefits as they may decide to create or improve, Muscat claimed.

"We are here picketing today," he added, "because we believe from this date on that no action we take, including a strike, will ever equal the serious injustice suffered by the taxpayers because of the greed of the five people on the Board of Supervisors who have the audacity to utter the words 'fiscal responsibility'."

Muscat said employees are seeking a wage settlement that will keep workers even with the rising cost of living, and benefits prevailing in both private industry and other governments of comparable size.

SSF Paramedics Save Another Life

South San Francisco's paramedic team is again credited with saving a life.

This time the person stricken was a 41-year-old schoolteacher who is a diabetic, a fire department spokesman said.

The paramedic team of Jerry Holbrook and Ronald Sciantri administered treatment to Joan Cook at her Howard Court home after her mother found the San Francisco school teacher unconscious Thursday at about 8:30 a.m.

Mrs. Ruth Murphy, mother of the victim, said she had talked to her daughter at about 7 a.m. and she reportedly was all right.

However, school authorities in San Francisco where the victim teaches, called Mrs. Murphy later to tell her Joan had not reported for work.

Attempts to contact the daughter failed and Mrs. Murphy went to the South San Francisco home, where she found her daughter. She is recovering at Mary's Help Hospital.

Final Bid on Paramedics

By JANET PARKER

South San Francisco was to make a final plea for retention of its paramedic service at the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors meeting Tuesday.

At that time, a decision is expected on whether countywide emergency medical care should be provided by firefighter-paramedics or the private ambulance service.

South San Francisco is the only city in the county with its own paramedic service and the City Council, staff and residents are determined to keep their service.

"We hope to assure the Board of Supervisors that citizens are interested in maintaining the paramedic service in South San Francisco," Fire Chief Lawrence Toellner said.

In the past month, petitions have been circulating throughout the city led by Leah Blackburn, chairwoman of the Information and Referral Center Board of Directors.

The petitions ask that South San Francisco be permitted to retain its paramedic program despite any action by the county.

Mrs. Blackburn will present those petitions Tuesday.

Meanwhile, the county's four ambulance companies also have been arguing that the issue should be carefully considered.

South San Francisco is served by Silva Ambulance, Bay Area Ambulance Service and Mercy-Peninsula Ambulance Service.

Art Brown of Bay Area Ambulance said the county must eventually decide on one or the other — paramedics or ambulance personnel.

He has argued that ambulance personnel would be a more realistic resource for a paramedic program, since the ambulance service already exists.

He admits costs for the county would be considerable, including sophisticated equipment, an extensive communications network and more training for personnel.

South San Francisco officials have argued that it's city program is more economical. They have been able to operate their first-year program with a $52,000 budget, including the salary of a paramedic captain, maintenance to vehicles and supplies.

Major equipment, including the paramedic van, $5,800; an emergency warning system, $500; cardiopulmonary resuscitator, $1,560; and mobile radio for the vehicle, $1,000, were provided through federal funds.

However, Brown said, the federal funding was a one-time expenditure.

Other cities will not be able to obtain that funding, he said.

"South San Francisco has a fine paramedic structure," Brown said. "In all probability, it will be continued. There's no reason it shouldn't be."

And, he said, a paramedic admittedly is better trained for emergency care than ambulance personnel.

The county, however, must make the decision.

"The cities aren't prepared to finance one under the jurisdiction of fire services," Brown said.

Bob Curry, supervisor and trainer for Silva's, said ambulance response in South San Francisco is authorized only for Code 2.

That means that an ambulance into South San Francisco can't use a siren and must stop at red lights.

The only time that a total emergency Code 3 is used is when the city's paramedics already are out on another call.

The important thing, he said, is not who arrives at the scene first.

"Our main interest is the patient who is in trouble," he said. He said firefighters and ambulance personnel conceivably could work hand in hand.

"It would be highly feasible for the two to be one unit," Curry said.

If one agency or person has control, he said, someone is liable to end up out on the street.

"It could tie up the whole emergency procedure," he said.

He said residents are going to pay for paramedic service, whether its provided by fire personnel or ambulance personnel. The average cost of an ambulance call in the county at this time, he said, is $82.

The supervisors may adopt the emergency services plan, but not necessarily choose between ambulance and firefighters on Tuesday, according to George Robertson, director of administration for health and welfare.

Negotiations probably will begin, he said, to determine how the plan will be carried out.

He said that different systems in different areas of the county is very possible.

He also noted South San Francisco shouldn't be fearful of losing its program.

"No one is attempting to upset the system," Robertson said. "We only want to bring more order."

There is not necessarily going to be a single uniform absolute county wide system, he said.

Mayor Admits to 'Booboo'

The City of San Bruno will not print Mayor John Barnard's statement of qualifications in a pamphlet to be included in the sample ballot.

According to the city clerk's office, Barnard, a candidate for re-election to the City Council on March 2, failed to file his qualification statement when he filed his nomination papers Dec. 11, 1975. He, instead, waited until the last day to file Dec. 24, to hand in the statement.

Jan Aki of the city clerk's office said the elections code provides that qualification statements must be filed at the same time as nomination papers.

Barnard said he was unaware the statement had to be filed with the nomination papers and said he waited until the final filing day, "to keep my qualifications to myself as long as I could."

Barnard said he would be distributing more campaign literature as a result of what he called his "monumental booboo."

Rockhill Candidate For Judge's Post

A third candidate has announced his intention to seek the Southern District Municipal Court position of Judge Roy W. Seagraves in the June 8 primary election.

Gordon L. Rockhill, 41, of Redwood City, who has practiced law in the city for 13 years, announced Thursday that he will be a challenger for the post to which Judge Seagraves is seeking re-election to six-year term.

Robert Bishop a former assistant district attorney, and V. Gene McDonald, a Redwood City attorney, announced earlier this month that they intend to run against Judge Seagraves.

Rockhill said he believes

Millbrae to Study 400-Room Hotel Plan

The Millbrae City Council and Planning Commission will meet for a joint study session Feb. 10 to discuss plans for a hotel project at the corner of Old Bayshore Highway and Millbrae Avenue.

At that meeting, local developer James Richmond is to present his plans to construct a 400-room hotel on 6.3 acres of bayfront property.

The study session will be a prelude to a series of public hearings on the Planning Commission and City Council levels.

Richmond for years has been attempting to get approval to build a hotel in Millbrae. This year he announced that the Ramada Inn chain was interested in operating his hotel.

Guy Ramsey, hotel programmer from Memphis, Tenn., is coordinating drawings, graphics and artists' renditions of the project.

Richmond also has announced he has arranged for tentative financing of the hotel, but will not reveal the lenders until his plans have been accepted by the City Council.

Richmond said he called for the study session to present city officials with all aspects of his plans and to get input from the commissioners and councilmen.

"We'll go along with any input as long as it's something we can live with," Richmond said.

Last summer, Richmond's plans for a hotel ran into a road block, when the Federal Aviation Administration ruled that the height of the proposed hotel would present danger to airplanes flying into San Francisco International Airport.

The FAA later advised Richmond his hotel could not exceed 72 feet above the ground or 79 feet above mean sea level.

Richmond has not yet decided on the specific height of the hotel, but said it would be between 45 and 72 feet high.

Richmond said the hotel lobby will resemble that of the Hyatt Regency in San Francisco.

Judge Seagraves Ask Re-election

Southern District Municipal Court Judge Roy W. Seagraves formally announced today that he intends to seek re-election to a third six-year term in the June 8 primary election.

Three attorneys have announced that they will be candidates for the incumbent's position.

His decision to seek re-election is based in part on recent statements by other declared candidates for the office, the judge said.

"The office of judge is one of our most valuable institutions, essential to the integrity of our system of justice and the protection of the rights of the people," Judge Seagraves stated.

In a press release signed by Austin F. Stevens, treasurer of the Committee for the Re-election of Judge Seagraves, the judge is described as "one of the hardest working judges in San Mateo County."

Robbers Strike Four Businesses

Four robberies hit south county businesses almost at once this week.

Included was one in which a white woman bandit wearing an Afro hairdo took $60 at gunpoint Wednesday night from an 18-year-old waitress in a small doughnut shop south of Redwood City.

In another incident, a 20-year-old woman frustrated a robber by out-talking him as he repeatedly ordered her to "Put the money in the bag," after showing a blue steel handgun at a Redwood City photo stand.

Patricia Ann Erickson, 18, of Redwood City, reported to sheriff's deputies that the woman, described as about 5 feet 6, and wearing a purple sweater, came into Winchell's Donut Shop at 3405 Middlefield Road about 7 p.m.

She said she had just served another customer and had returned to the counter to serve the woman when the robber pulled out a small black pistol from her purse and ordered, "Open the cash register slowly and no one will get hurt, babe."

Sally Darsey, a clerk in a Fotomat in the Woodside Plaza on Woodside Road, said a youth about 17 to 20 walked up at about 8 p.m., Wednesday, and ordered, "Put the money in the bag."

"What bag?" she would-be victim asked.

"Just give me the money," the robber ordered after she asked,

"What bag?" a second time.

She said she turned toward the cash register after noticing the man was becoming somewhat "edgy."

"They're looking at you over there," she said, however.

She finally opened the cash register, after the robber showed her a gun stuck in his belt. She declared, however,

"They're watching you from the liquor store."

"Give me the money, I'll blow your head off," ordered.

Then a customer pulled up.

The bandit fled, frustrated.

About an hour earlier, the Kentucky Fried Chicken at 204 El Camino Real was robbed of $55. Redwood City police said

A SWEET TOOTH

Girl Scout cookies are on the menu for little Tammy Perkins who at 23 months old is an old Girl Scout cookie customer. Girl Scout cookies now are on sale through February 1 for $1.25 a box from local Girl Scouts. All profits stay within the Daly City-Colma area and five varieties of cookies are featured.

World Wine Tour

Evening students in two courses at San Francisco State University, this spring, will taste their ways through the wines of two regions.

"Wines of the World: Germany," meets Feb. 3 - March 2, from 6-9 p.m. Some of the wines sampled in this five-session class come from Austria, Switzerland and the Alsace and Mosel-Saar-Ruwer wine-producing areas.

"Wines of the World: Bordeaux," meets March 9 - April 6 from 6-9 p.m. This five-session program offers a selection of white wines including those from Graves and Barsac and among many red wines, those from St. Emilion and Haut-Medoc.

Both classes discuss cultural, agricultural and economic factors influencing wine production and make comparative sensory evaluations for the regional wines.

Either or both of these one-unit classes may be taken for $30 a unit. The wine cost is not included and will average about $1 a person, each session.

BICENTENNIAL PLANNING

Friends of the Daly City Library finalize plans for their Bicentennial Program Jan. 30 at 7:30 p.m. in the Westlake Community Center, 145 Lake Merced Boulevard. The Friends have researched library books and will serve refreshments which might have been offered to guests during Revolutionary days. George Mardikian will speak on America from the viewpoint of an immigrant, the Westmoor High School drama department will present a scene from Shaw's "The Devil's Disciple," and Serramonte High's music department will entertain with songs. The planners include (from left) Virginia Tierney, Esther Haugh, Ruth Jarvis and Verna Teglia. Admission is free.

Sorority Chapter To Meet

The next regular meeting of Xi Lambda Sigma Exemplar chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will be held at 8 p.m. Feb. 2, at the home of Claire Patsel in San Francisco.

The program "A Woman Alone" will be presented by Mrs. Ed Reid of Pacifica and the "surprised package" for the benefit of the philanthropic fund will be donated by Jean Sprouse of South San Francisco.

Good morning, good cooks.

It looks as though last week's column, which featured dishes for wintry, rainy weather, can be placed in your recipe drawer for future use.

Not only are we not having rain, we are having the warmest, sunniest, driest January in years and years. So this week we'll plan an entree that can be made ahead and popped in the oven when you come in from a day of basking in the glorious sunshine.

This recipe has traveled around California and been mailed across the country by pleased cooks. Applesauce is an unusual ingredient for meatballs, but try it, you'll like it.

APPLESAUCE MEATBALLS

- 2 pounds ground beef
- 1 medium onion, chopped fine
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
- 1 cup corn flakes, crushed
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/2 cup applesauce
- 2 cans tomato sauce, 8 ounces each

Combine the two pounds ground beef with the chopped onion, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon each pepper and garlic salt, one cup crushed corn flakes, one beaten egg and one-half cup applesauce. Mix well and form into small balls. Place in lightly oiled, open baking pan and pour the two cans tomato sauce over all. (At this point you may store in refrigerator for later baking.) Bake in 350-degree oven for one hour. Serves 8.

Serramonte High Briefs

By KATHERINE MILANI

Serramonte High School's mid-term graduation ceremony will be held in the Little Theatre at 8 p.m. tonight.

Serramonte's Concert Band will be present and play the traditional march "Pomp and Circumstance," along with one other familiar selection.

Mid-year graduates are to attend practice at 9 a.m. today.

If you wish to obtain tickets, call 992-9555.

BUY YOUR "Entertainment '76" ticket books now from any executive board member.

Included in these books are many discounts on famous East and West Bay restaurants, movies, sports events, exhibits and theater shows.

The books are selling for $12 and all money raised will go toward student body activities.

THE CALIFORNIA SCHOLARSHIP Federation visited San Jose State University January 20.

The group of students left Serramonte at 9 a.m. and arrived at San Jose at approximately 10 a.m.

Many students from C.S.F. are planning to attend SJSU this September and this trip gave them a worthwhile chance to really tour the campus and get better acquainted with it.

The C.S.F. Organization and the Junior/State Model U.N. clubs are now selling Lions' raffle tickets for $1.

Both clubs get 50 cents profit off of each ticket, and a book of tickets costs only $10.

"MAME", the smashing Broadway play, is now being rehearsed by all Serramonte drama and musical theatre students.

The dates are set for the performances, which will be the first two weekends in May.

A release of the cast and crew will be published in two weeks.

SERRAMONTE IS holding spring semester elections soon and all students wishing to take part in the elections are to pick up their petitions in the main office.

The offices of senior, junior, sophomore and freshman president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer are open.

Honors Scheduled

A testimonial dinner for Assistant Sheriff Eugene E. Stewart, who retired Jan. 1 at the age of 55, will be held Friday, Feb. 6, at the Villa Hotel in San Mateo.

The affair will begin with no-host cocktails at 7 p.m., and dinner is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

Stewart served for more than 29 years with the sheriff's office.

Tickets may be obtained from Albert B. Lindsey, P.O. Box 1, Redwood City, 94063. Reservations are necessary, and tickets are $12.50.

Sheriff John R. McDonald Jr., is chairman of the retirement dinner.

Complex Seeks Lower Bill

The owners of a South San Francisco senior citizen complex say the city has overbilled them $1,270 in sewer charges and are asking that the city refund it.

At the same time, they are asking that the city reclassify the facility at 416 Alida St. as institutional, allowing a lesser sewer charge.

Frank Addiego, director of public services, will recommend against the request at the City Council meeting.

Bernard Hagan, owner of the 75-unit complex, first appeared before the council Dec. 17, requesting that sewer charges be based on institutional use.

In that case, the complex owners would be charged $34 a year or 34 cents per 100 cubic feet of consumed water instead of the general $34 per unit charged throughout the city.

Hagan said the complex should have been charged $754.16 for the 1974-75 tax period instead of the $2,025 which was billed and paid.

Hagan already has met with Addiego, who told him the present charge is accurate. Addiego says in a report to the council that the city staff can not make the requested change.

The council, however, may consider amending the city ordinance to change the senior citizen complex classification.

"It should be noted that if such a change becomes a reality that it must be reflected throughout the city because presently sewer service charges are not based on land use, use permit, the age and number of occupants and the number of bedrooms," Addiego reported.

Outdoor Meeting

The San Mateo County Board of Education is willing to meet informally with the foreman of the County Grand Jury to discuss the county's outdoor education program and the proposed new outdoor education facility near Loma Mar.

The board directed its president, Florence Cadigan, Wednesday night, to issue the invitation to Grand Jury Foreman Joe Karp and any other members of the Grand Jury who may wish to attend.

'Channel Lock' Suspects Caught

Police in Daly City think they may have cleared up a number of "channel lock" burglary cases that have plagued that city in recent weeks.

Two men were arrested Thursday after they allegedly broke into an apartment at 144 Crestwood Drive by forcing open the door lock with a pair of channel lock pliers.

Lt. Tom Culley said the city has been hit with as many as 20 such burglaries a month "all using the same (modus operandi)."

Charged with burglary after they were arrested at the scene were Craig Wuebb, 33, of 419 Drake St., Marin City, and Dennis Murphy, 38, of 228 Turk St., San Francisco.

All property taken in the Crestwood burglary was recovered, police said.

Williams Play a Monstrous Failure

It's a dark day for the American theater when our foremost contemporary playwright concocts an entertainment that is such hogwash that it's a waste of time, talent and money to produce it.

I suppose American Conservatory Theater feels differently or else it wouldn't have given Tennessee Williams' new play, "This Is (An Entertainment)" such a first-class, stunningly mounted production. It has nothing to apologize for on that score.

But what a disappointment to subscribers and theater-goers who so admire the poetry and power of Williams' earlier works to see such genius resort to the embarrassing self-indulgence and dreary perversity of this unentertaining travesty with the dubious title.

The author has termed the work "outrageous" which is giving it more credit than is due. It is an outrage, spewed out in a steady torrent of obscenities, the lowest level of puns, tedious scatology and boring repetition. It is as vulgar an attempt at comedy as I've ever seen. And to top it off, it isn't even fun... or funny.

A few crude lines got laughs on opening night. The Countess at one point turns to the audience and announces, "You may confuse it with a skin flick." There's plenty of that. Topless chamber maids (wearing pasties), Nicholas Cortland in the dual role of chauffeur-lover and general of the rebel army seldom in anything but Jockey shorts, and Elizabeth Huddle in a scanty lace camise over which she puts 12 different gorgeous gowns, each one more stunning than the last, make the Countess' aside right to the point.

If the production has any merit, it is in Allen Fletcher's spartan direction of inferior material which he's tried to bolster with a sense of merriment and irreverence. John Jensen's beautiful revolving set of the gilded and marbled lobby and boudoir of the Grande Hotel Splendide and Robert Morgan's richly textured, gossamer chiffon and lace costumes at least divert one's attention away from the raunchy text and its one-dimensional characters.

For the first 15 minutes it seemed as though we'd be regaled with an amusing farce about 45 characters who engage in a nightmarish fantasy in a resort hotel in the capital city of a small monarchy between Western and mid-Eastern Europe on the verge of revolution. Bombs and bullets are shaking the hotel's foundation, but the ancient and bejeweled aristocrats playing backgammon are gossiping obliviously to the growing chaos around them. Bellboys, butlers, managers and footmen try to stay calm.

In strides the Countess (Elizabeth Huddle) preceded by two Borzoi dogs, two howling children, a nanny, a flurry of maids and followed by a ludicrously titled husband (Ray Reinhardt) who has horns growing out of a bright orange wig. They grow longer as the play progresses signifying his wife's cuckolding him with their handsome chauffeur (Nicholas Cortland). And the play goes quickly downhill from there.

Huddle plays the Countess to the hilt as an acid tongued, dirty-mouthed viper. The power-mad hedonist's best lines are cruel insults. Her pastime is sex and reading her memoirs disguised as a mystery novel. She claims to live from moment to moment or "a moment ahead of the moment" which is a line so overworked you can run into the lobby for respite from its irritating incantation.

The role is incredibly energetic and even the Countess comments of herself, "The energy crisis of this play precludes matinee, if not evening, performance."

The whole endurance test seems unworthy of Miss Huddle's talents. But she puts on a good show of personifying the author's image of a woman friend after whom he patterned the unpleasant nymphomaniac.

Most of what Cortland has to say and do makes him appear idiotic and Reinhardt rises to the level of the screaming, groveling, dispicable munitions manufacturer, which isn't very high.

Nothing works. Williams has somehow lost touch with reality. His views of wealth and revolution are irrelevant. The people he's created are not worth knowing or caring about. The play rampages along on one strident note, except for the brief lyricism when the apparition of dead mother of the Countess comes back singing to harp and violin accompaniment. The second act loses momentum and falls apart entirely.

If the author decides to rewrite the play which San Francisco is seeing in its world premiere, co-producer Gene Persson might make a try for Broadway. But the play as I saw it at the Geary Theater is a disaster, devoid of heart and almost painful to watch, especially when you see all the care, expense and hard work that ACT has put into it.

Williams has written a shallow, grotesque play and poked fun at it himself in the ironic line delivered by the Countess, "If this were a Joe Papp production, it should have stood in the park." Considering my reaction, maybe I should have.

Visitacion Tells Its 'Final' Offer

By BOB HEMINGWAY

Robert Follett, general manager of Visitacion Associates, has made an offer of a "final compromise" to limit the height of all buildings in the proposed Crocker Hills development on San Bruno Mountain to a maximum of 12 stories.

Follett made the statement Thursday before the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors in Redwood City as the board began its series of public hearings on the recommendation of the County Planning Commission that the county general plan be amended to permit a planned community development on the mountain.

Some 200 persons were present to hear the proponents and opponents reiterate the positions they expressed during a series of nine public hearings before the Planning Commission.

Follett said Visitacion would be willing to revise its development plan to eliminate 14, 16, 18 and 20-story buildings in the project.

He said the offer was made in response to concerns raised by citizens concerning the high-rise buildings in the present plan.

"It is our considered opinion that to reduce the height of these buildings would seriously affect this balance," Follett stated. "However, in view of the serious concern expressed by sincere citizens and most especially by members of the board, Visitacion Associates is willing to limit the height of every building within Crocker Hills to a maximum of 12 stories."

Follett said the density loss from the change would be made up in low and mid-rise buildings in the same area.

The Visitacion general manager reported that the property the developer owns on the mountain has been appraised at $28.2 million value.

The appraisal, made for Visitacion by Desmond Johnson, a land appraisal expert, is "crucial," Follett said, in light of calls by opponents of Crocker Hills for the county to purchase Visitacion's property for park land.

Assuming a 20-year revenue bond at 7.5 per cent interest, the cost to county taxpayers for acquisition, debt service and maintenance over the 20 years would be nearly $70 million, Follett asserted.

The general manager reviewed the developer's plans to develop 420 acres of the total of 1,273 acres, leaving 87 per cent for open space, parks and recreation.

"This 850 acres donated by Visitacion Associates (for public use), when considered with the proposed County Regional Park and the Westbay land on San Bruno Mountain, will insure that 80 per cent of the now undeveloped land on and around the mountain will remain in public use in perpetuity," Follett said.

He estimated that the Crocker Hills development would generate $50 million in retail sales and $22 million annually in tax revenues.

In Thursday's afternoon session, six speakers for the Coalition of Concerned Citizens expressed their support for the proposed development.

Ward Connerly, a Sacramento consultant in community development, termed the development "a sound project with no adverse impacts that cannot be mitigated."

Years ago, he said, the project would have been readily approved, "even applauded."

Now, however, Connerly stated, there has been a move by environmentalists to stop big business. There has been some "blind" stopping of projects, he said, "even good projects."

Connerly said that if the county wants low and moderate income housing in the development, the developer cannot provide it without a subsidy mechanism, urging that the county negotiate with the developer on the matter.

The board has scheduled resumption of the hearings for 9 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 29, in the Hall of Justice, Redwood City, to hear opponents of the project. It will then adjourn to that night at 7 p.m. in the War Memorial Community Center, 6655 Mission St., Daly City.

Fair to Renovate Restaurant

A $250,000 project to remodel the Garden Restaurant at the San Mateo County Fair Hall of Flowers has been announced by Joseph Geller of Hillsborough, chairman of the Fair Board's restaurant committee.

According to Geller, the design firm of Simpson, Strata & Associates has presented plans to completely redesign both the inside and outside entrances and to renovate the lounge and dining areas to better serve the public.

New kitchen equipment will not only serve the restaurant, but will be portable to service other areas of the fairgrounds.

Plans to call for bids are already under way.

The project will be undertaken in three phases: The lounge renovation; updating kitchen equipment; and, redecorating the dining area, including the laying of new carpeting and the installation of new furniture.

"We feel this renovation is necessary to make the restaurant the focal point of fair activities and to accommodate a greater variety at the of events at the Fairgrounds," said Anthony J. Tarlock of Hillsborough, board president.

In another action, Earl Honerlah of San Mateo, Bicentennial committee chairman, reported bicentennial plans include an expanded "Heritage Faire" in the community building, the exchange of plants, trees and flowers from cities in the original 13 colonies, competition in colonial sporting events and special landscaping and decorations with a bicentennial theme.

A multi-media presentation showing the history of San Mateo County will be presented daily by eight students during the fair. The program is sponsored by the County Arts Council.

According to Sal Millan, general manager, almost 80 per cent of the concessions and 30 per cent of the exhibitor space have already been contacted for this year's fair.

Armed Man Robs Market

A lone man armed with a knife robbed the 7-11 Store at 105 West Angus Ave., San Bruno, early Monday and fled with an undisclosed amount of money, police report.

The man, described as white, 18 to 20 years old, 5 feet 10 and weighing about 180 pounds, robbed the store shortly before 1 a.m., police said.

A small truck allegedly used in the robbery was found abandoned two blocks away, police noted.

Tutors Needed

Some 200 adult volunteers are needed by the American National Red Cross as conversational English tutors in San Francisco and San Mateo Counties.

The tutors will work on a one-to-one basis with adult Vietnamese and Cambodian refugees who have enrolled in Bay Area English classes.

Assignments will begin this month and run through June 1, and a tutor must be able to meet with his or her student at least once per week.

A training session will be held Feb. 2 from 9 a.m. to noon at the Red Cross office, 1449 Bellevue Ave., Burlingame.

CAPTURE Wins Renewal Backing

The countywide supported crime prevention program called CAPTURE was recommended to the state for a second year of life Wednesday by the Criminal Justice Council of San Mateo County.

The application for $75,000 in federal funds must go through the state, and is usually approved after a regional council has recommended such.

Total cost of the program is $83,333.

Designed to benefit each community, CAPTURE's project director is San Mateo Police Chief J. L. Coppock. At one point last fall there were rumblings that Sheriff John R. McDonald would try to gain control of the program, but that never materialized.

The primary emphasis of the program is citizen involvement to solve particular community crimes and problems. Other benefits, officials said, include provisions for countywide coordination and standardization of crime prevention programs.

Petitions Replace Traditional Fees

Eleven candidates for public office in the June primary election have secured petitions in lieu of filing fees, according to the office of San Mateo County Clerk-Recorder Marvin Church.

Monday was the first day to obtain the petitions under provisions of a new state law which gives candidates for local judicial and supervisory offices, as well as state and federal legislative posts, the choice of paying the filing fee at the time they take out nomination papers or of submitting a petition in lieu of the fee.

Church said that incumbent members of the Board of Supervisors — William H. Royer and James V. Fitzgerald — obtained petitions, as did Esther Rascon, a county social services worker who intends to challenge Royer, and Fred Lyon, who announced that he will seek the board seat being vacated by Jean Fassler.

Others taking out petitions: V. Gene McDonald, Southern District Municipal Court judge; Dixon Arnett, 20th Assembly District; Robert Finch, U.S. Senate; Joseph Cooney, David Harris, Leona Haws, all 12th Congressional District; John McGuire, 11th Congressional District.

Mothers March Drive Set Junior Grand National Slated at Cow Palace

The Mothers March Against Birth Defects will take place Jan. 29 - Feb. 1 to benefit March of Dimes programs of research, medical service and professional and public health education.

Candy Mullins, San Mateo County Mothers March chairman, reports the goal for San Mateo County is $50,460.

"Physical and mental birth defects strike more than 200,000 infants every year. Only through more research into the causes of congenital defects and improved prenatal care can this figure come down," Mrs. Mullins said.

To prevent birth defects, the National Foundation March of Dimes is currently giving grants to 156 medical schools and accredited hospitals for research.

One of the grants in the amount of $35,000 has been given the Stanford University School of Medicine in Palo Alto for research in prenatal diagnosis.

Working on the project are Leonard Herzenberg, Ph.D., professor of genetics; Dr. Howard Cann, associate professor of pediatrics and genetics; James Ph.D., a visiting scientist from Finland; and Dr. Michael Iverson, formerly with the National Institute of Health in Bethesda, Maryland.

Dr. Cann explained that prenatal diagnosis is currently done by amniocentesis.

This is a process performed at 15 weeks of pregnancy on women with a high risk of having conceived an infant with a genetic disorder.

Amniotic fluid, which contains cells from the infant, is obtained from the uterus by a needle to find out if the baby will have Down's syndrome (Mongolism) or certain other birth defects.

Testing the fluid takes about two to three weeks.

Dr. Cann and his colleagues are working on process to determine if a fetus is abnormal by simply taking a sample of the mother's blood.

"Our work involves isolating the baby's blood cells from the mother's blood by making the baby's cells fluorescent so they can be isolated with cell sorter. These cells can then be examined for indications of abnormality," Dr. Cann said.

Stanford's School of Medicine has also received a grant of $51,600 for research in embryology. March of Dimes grants totaling approximately $213,000 have also been given to the University of California, San Francisco, for research in immunology, metabolic disorders, sickle cell anemia, fetal development, embryology, connective tissue disorders and chromosome studies and defects.

The 1976 Junior Grand National, slated for April 9-21 at the San Francisco Cow Palace, will mark the 30th anniversary of the nation's only youth-oriented livestock exposition, horse show and rodeo.

Since it was first launched by the state in 1947 to encourage and support the livestock endeavors of California youngsters, the Junior Grand National has racked up an impressive list of accomplishments.

During the past 29 years, more than $6 million has been distributed to livestock exposition exhibitors. Of this amount, market animal sales accounted for nearly $5.3 million, including $750,000 in sales that were above market price.

In addition, the Cow Palace paid $650,000 in premiums, agriculture scholarships amounted to $88,000, while corporations and individuals have donated $81,000 for purchase of project animals.

The Junior Grand National horse show has become one of the country's most prestigious equestrian events and is the biggest on the West Coast. Awarded the coveted American Horse Shows Association Star Rating in 1975, the competition now draws youngsters from as far away as Canada.

"Although we have seen many changes in the Junior Grand National," said Chapman, livestock superintendent, "our goal remains the same - to give young people a comprehensive show designed to increase knowledge and skills in their chosen livestock field."

The livestock exposition, open to 4-H, FFA and other sanctioned youth group members, will run from April 9-13.

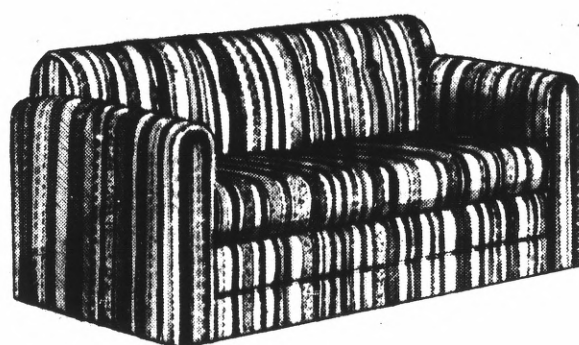

The high school rodeo, scheduled for the weekend of April 10 and 11, will feature teams competing for the California district championships.

To be eligible, contestants must qualify at district eliminations.

The Junior Grand National horse show will hold its English Division April 15-17 and, following an Easter Sunday break, Western riders will take over April 19-21.

Rabbi Krause Is Guest Lecturer

Rabbi Jay Krause will be guest lecturer at Adult Education Classes held on Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Congregation Beth Israel, 625 Brotherhood Way in San Francisco.

He will give a series of lectures entitled "Personalities in American Jewish Life" Feb. 2-23.

Rabbi Krause, a graduate of the Hebrew Union College, presently is serving as the Rabbi of Peninsula Sinai Congregation and teaching at the Brandeis Hillel Day School.

Prior to coming to the Bay Area, Rabbi Krause served as the Hillel Director for five years in New Orleans.

While at this position, he developed an Haggadah for Shabbat Services, served as the community liaison and established a library at 'Hillel House.

His experience in Jewish education is varied, having served as an educational director of a large Religious School in Ohio and as the assistant director of the Bureau of Jewish Education in San Francisco for three years.

For information regarding classes, call the temple office at 586-8833.

Siyum Latorah Luncheon Slated

On Feb. 14 Mr. and Mrs. Tibor Havas, members of the Beth Israel Judea Temple on Brotherhood Way, will sponsor a "Siyum Latorah" luncheon.

The service which begins at 9:30 a.m. will be short.

Directly following the service in Fellowship Hall, Rabbi Morris will lead a discussion which will be followed by a delicious luncheon prepared by the ladies of the Sisterhood.

Singing of Shabbat songs will be led by Cantor Henry Greenberg and there will be dancing with the BIJ Israeli Dance Group.

All members of the community may attend.

Creative Divorce Workshop at SFSU

Mel Krantzler, author of the international best-seller, "Creative Divorce," conducts a one-day workshop at San Francisco State University on Feb. 21 in "Creative Divorce: A New Opportunity for Personal Growth."

Director of the Creative Divorce National Counseling Center in San Rafael, Krantzler uses a challenging combination of lectures, dialogues and small groups to enable every man and woman to use the crisis of divorce to begin a new life, a life that uses the best of the past, accepts the challenges of the present and is open to the newness of each new day.

Designed for the separated or divorced, the class also is valuable to those interested in personal growth or modern divorce problems.

The workshop, which runs from 10 a.m.-4 p.m., is $25.

For further information and registration, call SFSU Extension Services at 489-1373 or write Extension, 1600 Holloway Ave., San Francisco.

Stroke Club Schedules Speaker for Feb. 10

The Mary's Help Hospital Stroke Club will meet Feb. 10 at 7 p.m.

Martin Lorber, M.D. will speak on the problems of stroke at the meeting which will be held in the hospital's ninth floor recreation room.

All stroke victims, their families and friends may attend the party.

The purpose of the club is to help stroke victims adjust to new life styles made necessary by a stroke.

For more information on the Stroke Club, call Karen van Swearingen, R.N. at 992-4000.

Kickoff for Candidate

A kickoff celebration for Michael (Mickey) R. DeBernardi, a candidate for Daly City Council, will be held Jan. 31, at the Temple Beth-Israel-Judea, 625 Brotherhood Way from 7 p.m.-1 a.m.

Co-chairmen Bud Fratesa and Matt Murray said there will be live music, dancing, hors d'oeuvres, cocktails and no speeches.

"It is intended to be an opportunity for Mickey to meet with his friends and supporters before we get down to electing the only qualified candidate - DeBernardi," they said.

San Bruno Mountain: A San Mateo County artist calls it a "denuded hump." On the other hand, one of San Mateo County's leading writers, Dr. Frank Stanger, called it the head of a solid row of Peninsula towns that stretch down the Peninsula to the giant blimp hanger at Moffet Field.

Scarcely two individuals can be found who will describe San Bruno Mountain the same way.

Gilliam and Bry called it a "humpbacked ridge." The San Francisco volume of the American Guide Series described San Bruno Mountain as "a rough square with jagged outline, scored haphazardly by rocky hills and winding valleys." As he rode down the Peninsula, Elbert Hubbard wrote that the San Bruno Mountains lay in an area where "a cool breeze fans your face." He said it was a point — of a strip of land — that touched the city of San Francisco, "so that weary residents may take a run out from the busy bustling, hustling, ambitious city, out to the cool county where the fruits and flowers invite, . . . and the mountains beckon."

TO A GROUP of long time residents who were interviewed by San Mateo County's great historian, Dr. Frank Stanger, San Bruno Mountain was the place where they played as children. Some recalled hiking over its peaks to view the majestic Bay, others recalled playing in the tall foliage that grew on the slopes of the mountain.

Technically what is called San Bruno Mountain is a group of mountains that are part of a coastal range that includes such places as the Farallon Islands and Point Reyes. It rises 1,314 feet, compared to 922 feet for Twin Peaks and 938 feet for Mount Davidson. However, to geologists its height is not fixed. As Gilliam and Bry wrote, "In the long perspectives of geologic time you are merely standing on the crest of a wave that is momentarily higher than the surrounding area. Your geographic eminence will last but a fraction of a second of geologic time."

As long ago as 1916 the historian Philip W. Alexander predicted that "the foothill districts, sloping upward from the bay, will become one, entire exclusive residential section." He wrote, "Here then, upon the shore surrounding San Francisco Bay is the natural and logical place for a world center of industry, where the problems of the future may be wrought out, until the sun of progress turns backward in its course."

In its Future Development of the San Francisco Bay Area 1960-2020, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers wrote that San Mateo County is part of an area that can expect an estimated increase of 2.7 million people in the period of sixty years. By 2020 the South Bay density will be 3,000 persons per square mile or nearly four times the 1960 density.

Such figures caused the authors of the Army Engineers Future Development of the San Francisco Bay Area 1960-2020 to write, "On the west side of San Francisco Bay, there will be continuing encroachment on the remaining vacant lands between the Bay and the San Bruno Mountains, and many of the smaller, isolated housing developments in that area will coalesce. This consolidation of local residential settlement will take place on the Pacific slope of the San Brunos."

SUCH QUOTATIONS lead many to observe that the real questions before the people of San Mateo are such things as — How the foothills of San Bruno Mountains will be developed? Will there be high rise buildings, condominiums and industrial parks? Have the developers planned for enough open space and parks? What land will they set aside for schools, fire stations, police stations, libraries? How about the water supply?

As someone remarked at a recent hearing, the issue is not "Save San Bruno Mountain" as much as — how much of San Bruno Mountain shall be saved?

To answer these questions, citizens can contact the Daly City Public Library where you can refer to a fact sheet.

Hilton Inn Expansion Gets Commission Okay

A $2.5 million program of improvement and expansion for the Hilton Inn Hotel at San Francisco International Airport has been given the go-ahead by the Airports Commission, it was announced Jan. 20 by Airports Director William J. Dwyer.

"The Hilton plans for expansion were obviously influenced by current airport passenger levels and trend analyses forecasts of continued growth of Bay Area air transportation demands. These demands will be accompanied by increases in passenger flow at the Airport," he said. To accommodate current needs and projected increases in patronage, Hilton proposes to build a 90 ft. x 140 ft. building which can be used as a large, 700 person capacity, banquet and exhibit room, or divided into smaller conference rooms.

Enlarging the existing coffee shop, dining room, cocktail lounges and administrative offices is included.

"Providing these additional conference rooms, dining and operational facilities will complement and permit better use of the existing 550 room hotel. No additional hotel rooms are being added in this expansion," Dwyer said.

The Hilton Inn is the only hotel located on Airport property.

It occupies space under a 40 year land lease granted by the Public Utilities Commission in April 1958. The lease provides an annual minimum rental of $49,999.92 or 5 per cent of hotel gross income up to $2 million increasing to 6 per cent income above $2 million.

Under this lease, the airport received $338,034 in rent during fiscal year 1973-74, and $132,766 during the first five months of 1974-75.

Easily accessible to the public from the main entrance road to the passenger terminals, the expanded hotel will boast a new tower above the administration building, improved architectural design and increased landscaping along the Bayshore freeway off-ramp to the Airport along with up-dated parking and traffic circulation patterns.

Initial plans have been reviewed and approved by the San Francisco Art Commission.

Review and evaluation of the possible environmental impact by the city planning commission has found that the project could not have a significant effect on the environment.

The entire cost of the improvements and expansion, estimated at $2.5 million, will be borne by Hilton Inn at its own and sole expense and without rental credit.

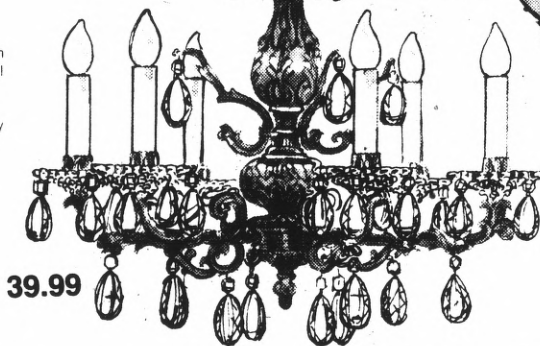

"This substantial capital investment by Hilton Inn, a significant airport tenant, is another effective demonstration of the faith and confidence with which informed astute businessmen are viewing projected future use levels and passenger volumes at San Francisco International Airport," the airports director said.

GIRL SCOUTING

GIRL SCOUT COOKIES remain on sale all this week with local Scouts selling the five inexpensive varieties to earn troop and service money.

The five varieties available include mint patties, shortbread, peanut butter patties, vanilla sandwich and PB's, a light oatmeal cookie filled with peanut butter cream.

The sale extends until Feb. 2 which is the cut-off date. This weekend girls will be selling cookies at booths in local businesses to clean up the sale.

In Daly City, Mrs. Kathy Skirra is booth sales coordinator. Chairwoman for the area cookie sales is Mrs. Marilyn Fern who is a volunteer and oversees the volunteer troop cookie sales chairwomen.

Cookies sell for $1.25 a box with all profits to be devoted to benefiting local girls.

Girls may also earn a newly designed cookie patch for their badge sash or camping jacket by selling 25 or more boxes.

Girls will receive a jewel on their cookie patch for every multiple of 25 after the initial. Troops also will win awards for top sales.

Two troops within the Daly City Girl Scout Association will win either two nights free use of a council campsite or $25 for the activity of the troop's choice.

These awards will be given to the troop selling the most cases per registered girl member so even the smallest troop has a chance of winning.

This year each parent of a Girl Scout has been asked to pledge her daughter's "Share of Belonging" to the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council. Parents have donated to maintain troop services to girls.

However, each girl has a chance to supplement her parent's commitment by earning part of her own "Share of Belonging" through cookie sales.

Additionally, troops receive 13 cents a box for the first 14 boxes a Scout sells and 20 cents a box for the 15th and over.

Many troops finance a full year's worth of camping and service projects from this single cookie sale.

Committee Endorses Silver

At its Jan. 9 meeting, the San Mateo County Democratic Central Committee endorsed Richard L. Silver for election to the Daly City City Council Mar. 2.

In making the announcement, Al Kochman, chairman of the committee, said the San Mateo County Democratic Central Committee endorsed Silver because "he has shown by his past action that he is well qualified to serve" on the City Council of Daly City.

Louanne Heath

Have you been waiting for just the right type of event to help lift you into the bicentennial spirit? Well, the Daly City Friends of the Library thinks it has arranged a program to stir the most lethargic patriot, and they very well may be right!

Mrs. Emmet Tierney and Mrs. James Hough have been working for months on the special program and this event has been packed with something for just about everyone. For the gourmets, the members of the "Friends" have researched cookbooks from the 1700's; refreshments will be made from recipes used during the time of the founding fathers.

Keynote speaker for the evening will be George Mardikian, author, internationally known restaurateur and humanitarian.

Mardikian has received numerous national awards and commendations for his work with displaced persons, as a food consultant for the United States Army and his devotion to the Boy Scouts.

He owns the Omar Khayyam restaurant in San Francisco. For this occasion, Mardikian will speak on the topic of "America from the Viewpoint of an Immigrant."

He last spoke to the Daly City group in 1957, when he presented an autographed copy of his book, Song of America, to the Westlake Branch of the Daly City library.

In addition to the main speaker the program will include an excerpt from the George Bernard Shaw play, "The Devil's Disciple," which deals with England losing the colonies. The drama will be presented by the members of Ken Brown's drama class at Westmoor High School. Jan Gaynor's students from Serramonte High School will entertain with appropriate vocal selections and members of Scout Troop 369, under the direction of Assistant Scoutmaster Richard Bagnall, will conduct a Flay ceremony.

The setting for this program will be the Westlake Community Center, Lake Merced Boulevard behind the fire station. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. and guests are welcome.

Mrs. Verna Teglia, the newly installed president of the local chapter, will preside.

MRS. KAYE MOON was installed the president of the Daly City Hostess Lioness Club during recent ceremonies in the Distillery in San Bruno.

Serving with Mrs. Moon during the coming months will be Mrs. Ginny Letsinger, vice president; Mrs. Virginia Tierney, secretary, and Mrs. Jeanne Tomasello, treasurer.

Lion McRobert Stewart, of the Daly City Host Lion's Club, was the master of ceremonies and Chuck Lewkowicz was the installing officer. Mrs. Bernice Hannah gave the invocation.

Mrs. Jacquie Choppelas, the outgoing president, announced that the club had made donations to the Lion's Eye Foundation and to Operation Santa Claus. The contributions had been approved by the members during the Christmas gathering held at the home of Mrs. Aina Beaumont.

SIXTEEN MEMBERS of the Westlake Catholic Women and four teen-age members of Our Lady of Mercy Parish have agreed to model fashions from Stokes at Stonestown in the upcoming Westlake Catholic Women's Fashion show and luncheon Feb. 7 in the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco.

According to Mrs. Robert Brizuela, the publicity chairperson, Mrs. David Anderson, Mrs. Harold Boyd, Mrs. Frank Carrozzini, Mrs. Daniel Colangelo, Mrs. Marcel Covell, Mrs. David Dioli, Mrs. Steven England, Mrs. Dennis Fahey, Mrs. James Foley, Mrs. Michael Hughes, Mrs. Richard Hutchinson, Mrs. John Rainey and Mrs. Charles Vanoncini are the ladies who have agreed to don the spring fashions for the benefit. Wearing styles designed for the high school set will be Kathleen Clifford, Janice Kelechava, Eileen Mahoney and Brigid Modena.

THE RIORDAN HIGH School Guild will sponsor an International dinner and games night on Feb. 10 at 7 p.m. in Chaminade Hall on the Riordan High School campus.

Mrs. Charles Lee, the publicity chairperson, reports that tickets are now on sale for the event and reservations, costing $3.50 per person are available from Mrs. Joseph Culf, 681-4712, or Mrs. Richard Forslund, 586-2589. The deadline for reservations will be Feb. 6.

MRS. MARY MCCOY, the director of volunteer services at Mary's Help Hospital, is now serving on the Advisory Board of Skyline College in the division devoted to Cooperative Education Job Placements.

This is in addition to her work at the hospital, not instead of.

Silver Vows 'Open Doors'

Richard L. Silver, candidate for city councilman in Daly City, will introduce a new open door policy in City Hall if he wins office in the March 2 election.

Silver said that most of the time citizens with problems can find their elected representatives only at council meetings where personal attention is impossible.

He said he will hold regular office hours at city hall so people can walk in and air their gripes.

"Local government leaders too often allow themselves to get out of touch with the people and their problems," Silver said. "Talking to citizens face-to-face is the best way to get to know them. It is also the best way for a public official to get the kind of community input that makes government responsive."

Silver said he will set aside at least one afternoon a week to meet with constituents at City Hall.

He will also schedule regular evening hours at neighborhood meeting places.

Women's Studies Class at Skyline

"Introduction to Women's Studies" will be offered this spring at Skyline College.

Instructor Judy Merin said the class focuses on a variety of aspects in women's lives today including history, employment, politics, the women's movement and others.

"The class is aimed at getting people to understand how women got to be in the position they are today in society," the instructor said.

The class will be offered from 7-10 p.m. Wednesdays and will begin Feb. 4.

The course is listed as General Studies 11S.

Three units of transferable college credit are provided for participants.

For further information, call the college, 355-7000.

Registration is available at the college prior to the first day of class and at the class on Feb. 4.

OLD GLORY

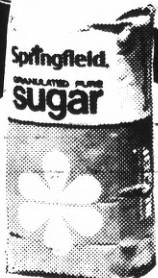

A replica of the oldest Stars and Stripes in existence has been presented to Our Lady of Mercy Grammar School by the Westlake Catholic Men's Association. Presenting the Bennington Flag to Sister M. Where There's Smoke ...There's Troop 180

By VERN KROGH

A 14-year-old girl from South San Francisco and a 20-year-old youth from San Carlos on the firelines, together, as full time firefighters during one of the most hazardous fire seasons in memory?

This is the promise for members of Explorer Troop 180, sponsored by the Sheriff's Office.

The troop already has gained local renown for its search and rescue operations.

It was a search party from Troop 180 that located the body of murder victim Mrs. Lois McNamara of Hillsborough in 1974, for example.

Now under the direction of Sheriff's Sgt. Tim McHenry and members of the California Division of Forestry, the troop is learning the techniques of fighting wildlife fires in the forests of San Mateo County.

This is not an idle exercise.

"We expect them to be on the firelines," says Fire Capt. Steve Ruffino, coordinator of the program.

So far, less than five inches of rain has fallen this season — compared to a five-year average of 11.02 inches.

Members of the troop have begun training at county headquarters of the state forestry division, west of Belmont, readying themselves for one of the driest years on record.

"The training they are getting is basically the same as our experienced firefighters get," Ruffino reports.

"They will learn to operate pumps. Eventually, they will know how to make hose lays and do relay pumping.

"They will be instructed in all aspects of fire fighting so we can use them as backup crews at fire camps," Ruffino says. "The older ones who want will be able to get jobs this summer — as firefighters."

Members of the troop, who come from all parts of the County, have already started the course of between 20 and 30 hours.

The troop has been divided into four groups, with two given classroom instruction with the other two classes simultaneously, being taught how to use fire apparatus and equipment under the instruction of Engineer Bob Wallen.

"In case of a major fire we intend to utilize them as much as possible," Ruffino says. "There will be a crew attached to each engine. The closest help we could count on previously was from inmate camps at Ben Lomond in Santa Cruz County or from San Luis Obispo."

The younger girls will, according to Ruffino and McHenry, "man support activities in fire camps."

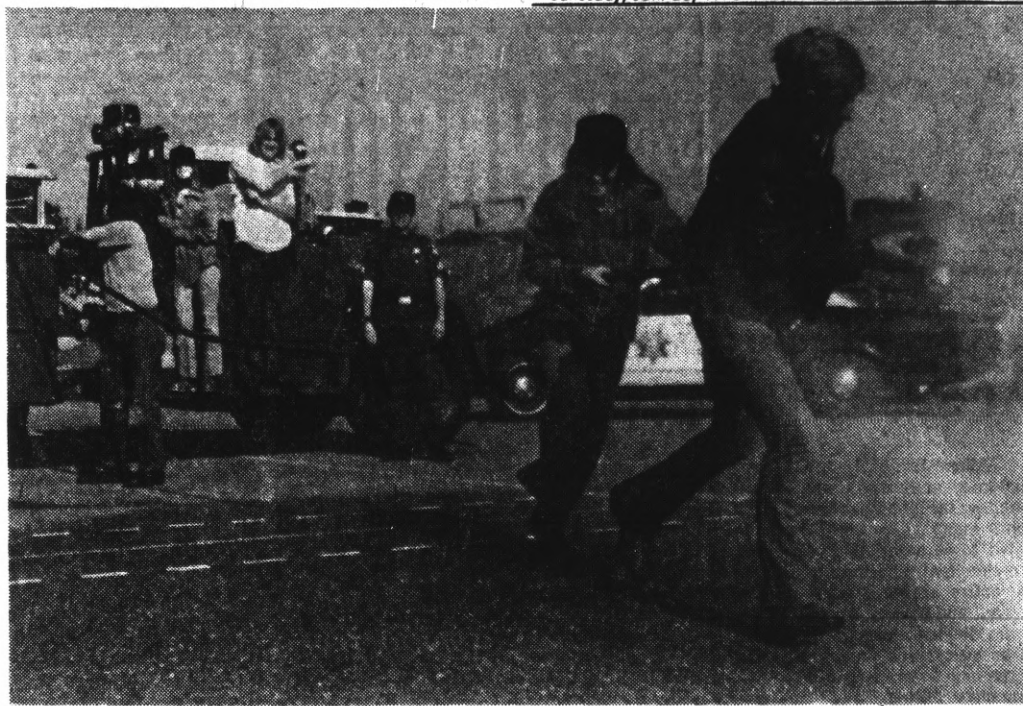

And, they could be there for days at a time.

If necessary, the Explorer Scouts will perform all the tasks, except the most dangerous, such as falling trees, that regular firefighters perform.

They will be manning shovels, for example.

The plans have been laid. Instruction has begun.

When the fire season begins, members of Explorer Troop 180 will be ready.

THE REAL THING MAY BE HERE SOONER THAN EXPECTED

Members of Explorer Scout Troop 180 practice fire fighting — getting ready for what could be one of the most hazardous fire seasons in county history.

Gun Law Charges Lodged

Two North County men were arrested in Daly City Wednesday night on suspicion of several gun law violations and possession of dangerous drugs following a routine traffic stop.

Officer John Mallin stopped the pair shortly before midnight at Eastmoor and Santa Paul avenues for a minor traffic violation.

Officer Mallin said he observed the passenger of the car throw something into a row of nearby bushes. He called for police backup and went to investigate, according to police reports of the incident.

Officers Mallin and Ronald Schenone allegedly found an undisclosed quantity of drugs, a cocked and loaded revolver and a sawed-off shotgun in the bushes, allegedly hidden there by the passenger of the car.

The revolver, it was determined later, was stolen.

Arrested and charged with a variety of gun law violations and possession of narcotics for sale were Richard Tovar, 29, 11 Montrose Ave., Daly City, and Larry Gonzales, 39, 735 Lockhaven Drive, Pacifica.

Both men are on parole from prison and are enrolled in the state supervised methadone program for addicts, police said.

Paintings On View In County

A number of Skylight Studio artists presently are exhibiting their paintings in the Peninsula area.

Among them are:
Bank of California, 1887 El Camino Real, Burlingame, to Feb. 10, Mrs. Jackie Gray of Burlingame; Northern California Savings and Loan office, 1430 Chapin Ave., Burlingame, Jan. 19 to Feb. 13, Mrs. Gray; Mrs. Gracia Bovis of Burlingame; Mrs. Annette Casey of Hillsborough and Mrs. Margaret Ruggles of Millbrae.

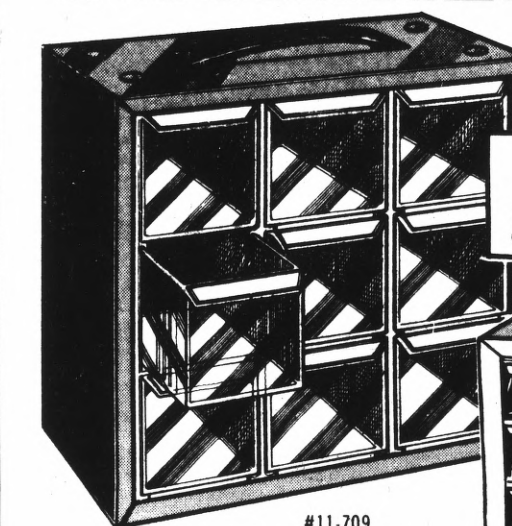

La Parisien Restaurant, 1136 Broadway, Burlingame, Jan. 8 to Feb. 10, Mrs. Doris Stirm of Hillsborough; Feb. 10 to April 8, Mrs. Barbara McAllen of Hillsborough.

Peninsula Bank, 149 Park Road, Burlingame, Jan. 22 to Feb. 26, Richard Inman of San Carlos and Anastasia Cole of Burlingame; First National Bank, 1551 El Camino Real, Millbrae, Feb. 13 to March 19, Phyllis Ahern of Burlingame; Mrs. Ruggles and Ms. Cole, Easton Public Library, 1800 Easton Drive, Burlingame, March 2 to March 30, Skylight Studio members show.

Ms. Cole directs the studio workshop and classes and stresses an individual personal approach "to the problems and joys of drawing and oil painting."

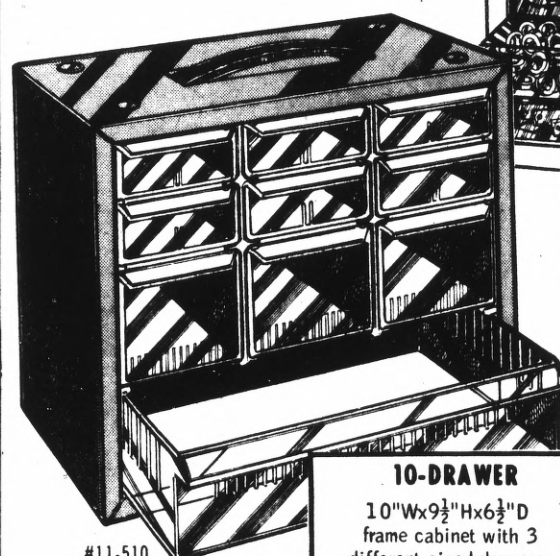

The studio was formed a year ago to promote professionalism in the local art field. Its workshop allows artists to share discoveries, inspiration, information and exhibition.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Xmas Every Night At Scotty Campbell's

Your "Bright Lights" has been a steady dining customer at Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City since the day the personable restaurateurs first opened its doors many years ago. And never, but never have we failed to be a satisfied customer. The food and service are excellent, and the atmosphere is delightful. In fact, the entire scene is "Christmas every night." The restaurant and bar are open seven nights a week, from 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday; 4 p.m. on Sundays. Reservations are suggested. . . . Your dining enjoyment at the new Phil Lehr's Steakery in the bottom of the San Francisco Hilton Tower doesn't end with the sizzling steaks. You can top off your feast with gourmet desserts such as Cherries Jubilee, Crepes Suzette and Peach Pardon. . . . In Rockaway Beach, Romano's Italian restaurant continues to rate food raves. The selective menu is sure to satisfy the most particular palate. And don't overlook Enrico's pizza variety, with three sizes — to eat in or take out. . . . Wise food shoppers will be happy to find Tanforan Park's 50-cent coupon advertised in today's "Bright Lights." When presented after 4 p.m., the coupon is valid for 50 cents off on the purchase of any item worth $1 or more at any of the Nine Garden Restaurants located within the shopping center.

PRECISION DANCERS

The Radio City Music Hall Rockettes make their first nightclub appearance ever when they opened at Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room Monday night, the beginning of a five-week stay (through March 7).

Festive Events at S.F. Holiday Inn

Celebrating something special? Frederic's, the sumptuous restaurant located in the Holiday Inn, South San Francisco, is an impressive place to hold any important occasion. The surroundings are lavish, the menu entrees are selective (includes the house specialty of Tournedos of Beef "Frederic's"), and a marvelous "house champagne" is reasonably priced. . . . There's something new happening at Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant. Hot Cappuccino (a blend of the finest liqueurs, special coffee, chocolate and spices) has been added to the bar selections. Order one of these tasty libations served in a special brown cup before feasting over a great spaghetti or fish dinner. It'll put pep in your step. . . . R. B. Read, the "Underground Gourmet," raved about Lehr's Greenhouse in San Francisco. He called it "a fantastic but orderly jungle, a restaurant setting possibly unique in the world and certainly so in San Francisco. . . . I recommend it for any occasion. Drop into the Boar's Head restaurant (on Concar Drive in San Mateo and Gellert Blvd. in Daly City) some Wednesday night and try their Steak and Enchiladas feature. For only $3.95, you get a juicy steak, two cheese enchiladas, salad and coffee, tea or milk. Ole!

Lake Tahoe's Good Ol' Summertime

Visited South Lake Tahoe last weekend and it was the first time we can remember ever seeing hotel-motel guests sunning themselves instead of whizzing off to the high peaks to ski. The casinos were packed to the front doors with excited fun seekers, and the parking lots were overflowing with autos from every part of the U.S.A. Barney's and the South Tahoe Nugget report that this has been the busiest January in their history. However, when the snow man does turn it on, no doubt it will be a long winter. . . . Nick Gust's three Rockaway Beach restaurants, The Moonraker, Nick's and Captain Charles, are counted among the most romantic dining sites along the coastline of California. Watching giant waves breaking and rushing to the shoreline of Pacifica, which is only a few feet from the restaurants, is a sight to behold while dining leisurely. . . . The Castaway at Coyote Point attracts its share of celebrities, which means executive chef Wilfred "Chuck" Pierce is quite accustomed to preparing dinners for famous people. . . . There's a coupon bargain taking place at participating A & W Family Restaurants (see the coupon ad in The Post today) that you won't want to miss out on. Two Mama Burgers and two Fries (regular order) will cost you only $1.25 when presenting the coupon. You save up to 85 cents on this generous offer, which is void after February 28.

Harbor Board Sets Meeting

The Board of Commissioners of the San Mateo Harbor District will hold a study session Wednesday evening, according to an announcement by Charles J. Boerio, president of the board. Boerio's announcement also gave notice of an executive session to be held immediately following the study session. The study session will deal with agenda items under consideration for the next regular meeting Feb. 4. The executive session was called, according to District Counsel James Dennis, for the purposes of selecting a new harbormaster to replace Dick Snyder, who has resigned.

Catholic Men Meet

The Westlake Catholic Men's Association will hold its second meeting of the New Year Feb. 3 at 8 p.m. in Our Lady of Mercy Parish Hall. Details on the Annual Crab Chioppino Feed will be announced and reservations for the annual retreat will be taken. All the men of the parish may attend.

Coyote Point Safety Record

Wednesday, Jan. 28, 1976 THE POST  -7C

By VERN KROGH
Thirteen years is a long time on a rifle range without a major accident.
That is the record, however, of the Coyote Point Rifle and Shooting Range, sponsored by the San Mateo County Department of Parks and Recreation during 160 months of operation.
It is not a case of "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition," as the World War II song went.
It is, rather, a matter of education.
Ranger John Kenney may have the best explanation for the effectiveness of the range.
"I don't like toy guns for kids," he says. "Then they get the real thing, and don't know it."

At the range the kids — as young as 10 years old — get the real thing. And they learn how to use it — safely.
The rangers provide a variety of classes, and beginners must take one before they actually get out onto the range.
"We had one class recently in which an 80-year-old grandfather and his 12-year-old grandson started at the same time," Rangermaster Chuck Stiefelmaier reports. "And they completed it at the same time."
Even experienced marksmen must read a set of rules before shooting at the range for the first time.
This includes not only the general public, but visiting police officers as well.
The rules are strictly enforced by Stiefelmaier. Kenney and their fellow rangers. Weapons and ammunition are examined to insure they meet the standards of the range.

During the past few years a renaissance in the use of antique weapons has occurred. Manufacturers make working replicas of guns such as the famed muzzle-loading Springfield rifles used by Union troops during the Civil War.
"Flint-lock pistols can be purchased.
Each weapon that uses black powder must be examined before it is fired at the range.
Generally, according to Stiefelmaier, "There really has been an increase in business during the past year — especially among women."

Among the best sellers are the so-called "Saturday night specials," which can be purchased much more cheaply than other weapons.
They are not allowed at the Coyote Point range.
Among the other things outlawed on the range are fully automatic weapons and armor piercing, incendiary and shotshell ammunition.

No fast draws are permitted, either.
Fifteen-minute firing periods alternate with five-minute periods to set up targets.
And woe betide those who do not unload their weapons and leave the magazines open during the target setting up period.

"When loading or working with your weapon," Kenney warns over the public address system, "stay on the fire line and keep the muzzle pointed down range."

"If your gun malfunctions or you cannot clear it, leave it pointed down and get assistance from a range officer."

Having been deputized by Sheriff John R. McDonald Jr., the rangers have the police authority to enforce their orders.

The range is open Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays from 1 to 9 p.m., and on Saturdays and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The courses taught include:
A 20-hour basic rifle and hunter safety class. It is held Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 9 p.m.

"You should come around here during deer season," Stiefelmaier comments. "It's just fantastic."

A 16-hour basic pistol course, held on Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m.

An advanced competitive pistol course, held as scheduled.

An Adult Hunter Safety Course, also as demand warrants.

"When the kids get out on the range, dad can't help them," Stiefelmaier says. "They must do it all by themselves."

The record of the range also is the record of rangers such as Chuck Stiefelmaier and John Kenney.

And it is their job not only to keep a safe record on the range, but to keep what could easily become a hazardous or potentially dangerous hobby as safe as any other.
